

Join the herd at Center for Water Research's monthly

WATERING HOLE

Tues, March 18 4:30-5:30pm

Hogan, Room 1160, First Floor

We're bringing together the brightest minds from across the savannah to discuss the many fascinating ideas bubbling up around water

No territorial disputes here - just pure, refreshing collaboration between faculty and students.

Come drink in the wisdom with us!

All faculty and students are welcome.

This Month:

Hear how Northwestern's Environmental Law Clinic director, Rob Weinstock, is successfully challenging Trump Tower's unauthorized intake of millions of gallons of water a day from the Chicago River, threatening local ecosystems and violating environmental regulations. In this compelling presentation, learn about the groundbreaking legal strategies that are holding one of Chicago's most prominent buildings accountable for its environmental impact.

